

Star Wars™: Galactic Starcruiser

AUDITION SIDE: SHIP MECHANIC

Oh, hey there. I, uh, didn't expect anyone to be in here at this late hour. Actually, never thought I'd be here at this late hour, but when the Captain says "Hey, get it done", you gotta be like, "Sure, on my way" and then you wonder down into the...Sorry, I'm rambling, but I'm super glad you're here!

See, I'm trying to get this, uh, airlock to release. Tricky business on account of the pressure backed up in the insulator coupling. My instructor always said, "Make sure you've got an extra hand on hand" ...now I know what she was talking about. Do you mind giving me a...well, a hand? (snickers) If you turn it to the wall while I trigger the...

Hey! Where ya going? Wait, wait! I can explain. I know what you're thinking. "That's not an insulator coupling", and you're right...it's not. And this isn't an airlock either. There's not even an airlock in this room! (hushed) Truth is, Captain sent me here to override the rhydonium pump and perform a lock-out on the hyperdrive. Super-secret mission 'cause she doesn't want that new Lieutenant to know. I get it. It's suspicious. You have every right to be, I mean, but you shouldn't be, but I understand why you are...suspicious.

But what do you say? Can you help me out?
